"Trees exhale for us, so that we can inhale to stay alive" -a statement well-given by writer Munia Khan. In our country, many festivals and mythological stories nurture around forests and wildlife, but the week-long Van Mahotsav is the most famous celebration dedicated towards protection of life on Earth. It focusses on the big issue of deforestation and aims at generating awareness among the masses for plantation. Blossoms celebrates this occasion every year not just by planting saplings in the locality but also by encouraging people for planting and also for protecting trees. Our kindergarten champs show us their excitement for the occasion through their crafts depicting the trees as our first and best friend. The unique presentation prepared by senior Blossomites highlighting the origin and history of Van Mahotsav is dedicated to the essential contribution of trees and forests to the human beings and other creatures on Earth.
